

Why we need a Registry:

The purpose of the Washington State Parkinson Disease Registry is to make Parkinson disease (PD) research happen faster by connecting people with PD to the research community.

We do this by:

- ▶ Informing patients about upcoming research trials for which they would be good candidates
- ▶ Assisting researchers with the recruitment of eligible patients

Why is this important?

- ▶ There is still much to learn about PD. Continued research is essential to a better understanding of disease progression, possible therapies, and an eventual cure.
- ▶ Patient recruitment is often times the essential and limiting factor in how quickly the research can be completed.
- ▶ It is crucial for people with PD to participate in research. Without your help therapeutic discoveries will slow.

What is the enrollment process?

Enrollment can take place over the phone in three easy steps!

1 Screening questionnaire

This consists of 15 questions about your PD symptoms. We will complete it over the phone, and it takes most people about five to six minutes.

2 Information statement

This is a short form you can access online or have sent to you through the mail that will help answer any remaining questions about our Registry. There is nothing to sign or return to us.

3 Enrollment questionnaire

This more detailed questionnaire takes 15 to 20 minutes and goes into greater detail about your symptoms and medications. We complete it during a second phone call.

What can you expect from the Registry?

If you are eligible to join the Registry, we will contact you every year to request an update of your biographical and medical information to ensure the accuracy of the Registry. This information will not be shared with anyone, and you may withdraw from the Registry at any time.

You will be notified regarding research trials for which you are eligible. If you wish to learn more about a particular research project, we will help you get in touch with the right people. However, you will be under no obligation to participate.
